

Mr Jenkins

Hi, my name is Mr Jenkins.

I am the class teacher in Philosophers and have been teaching at Glenfield Primary School since January 2026. I have over ten years of teaching experience and have worked across a range of year groups, from Year 1 through to Year 6. Over the past several years, I have specialised in teaching Year 6 and supporting children through this important stage of their primary education.

I have a real passion for reading. I love the way books can spark imagination, transport us to different worlds and help us learn about new ideas, people and experiences. As a teacher, I know the significant impact that reading can have on a child's life. Developing confident and enthusiastic readers helps children access all areas of the curriculum and gives them skills that will benefit them long after they leave primary school. I regularly share my own books with children and I am always happy to recommend a good read or discuss a favourite author or series.

My main aim as a Year 6 teacher is to put every child in the best possible position to succeed. Year 6 is a unique and exciting year, bringing together many of the experiences and opportunities that children have worked towards throughout their time at primary school. Whether it is preparing for SATs, taking part in residential visits, performing in the end-of-year production, developing independence and resilience, or preparing for the transition to secondary school, I want every child to feel supported, challenged and capable of achieving their very best.

My goal is to help every child grow academically, socially and emotionally, ensuring they leave Glenfield with the skills, knowledge and confidence they need for the next stage of their education.

I am really looking forward to continuing to work with the children in Philosophers and helping them to have a memorable, enjoyable and successful final year at Glenfield Primary School.
